

Women's Resource Center's Professional Development Coaching Program

The Women's Resource Center's (WRC) Professional Development Coaching Program is available to women who would benefit from addressing their own ongoing professional, economic and social needs as they relate to their roles at work, home and in the community. The program will provide them with one-on-one coaching assistance to help them make decisions and take action steps that will lead them towards individual success and a balanced life.

REQUIREMENTS:

- Applicant must complete the Coaching Application & Readiness Questionnaire.
- Applicant must pay the $25 Coaching Application fee.
- If applicant is chosen to participate in the program, WRC staff will contact the client and give them the name, email address and phone number of the assigned coach. The client will be responsible to contact the assigned coach.
- The applicant will be sent the $150 invoice for the six sessions. The Women's Resource Center may be willing to work with client on a payment plan should the client not have the financial means to pay the fee up front.
- The client must agree to work with the coach for six sessions within a three-month period.
- If the coach believes the client should continue for another six sessions, the applicant will agree to pay another $150 fee for additional sessions.
- The client will be required to fill out the Coaching Evaluation form after each six sessions.
- The client agrees to be interviewed by a coaching committee member and allow WRC to use their story for publicity purposes (anonymously).

Applicant must return the Coaching Application & Readiness Questionnaire and $25 fee to:
